Cynthia Dawkins: Thank you, Angie. On behalf of the Women’s Bureau, I would like to thank our speakers – Nicholl Aldridge, Mackey McNeill and Alyssa Rakovich – for their informative presentations. I would also like to thank our listeners, especially our Wi$e Up mentors and participants for being on the call today as well.

Financial security and knowledge go hand in hand, and I hope that what you have learned on the call today will help you become more confident and successful investors. A key to successful investing is to never invest in anything that you don’t understand.

Remember that investing is a learning process. You may make mistakes along the way, but with an understanding of the basics and a willingness to learn and seek advice when necessary, you will be able to manage your investments to reach your financial goals.

There are hundreds of publications with more information on investing. The American Association of Individual Investors offers many free investment education materials. Visit their Web site at www.aaii.org to access resources on topics including investing basics, financial planning and retirement, comparing mutual funds, stock market investing, and improving your investment portfolio.

The Association also has 48 local chapters where volunteers provide unbiased investment education in a social context. To find out if there is a chapter near you, visit their Web site or call 1-800-428-2244.
This concludes our call for today. To listen to recordings or read transcripts of previous Wi$e Up teleconference calls, including calls on Becoming an Investor and Managing Your Investments, please visit the Wi$e Up Web site at www.wiseupwomen.org.

Please join us for our next Wi$e Up teleconference call on May 31 from 2 pm to 3 pm Eastern Standard Time. Again, thank you all for participating.

Angela Rizzolo: Thank you all.

Alyssa Rakovich: All right, thank you.

Angela Rizzolo: Bye-bye.

Alyssa Rakovich: Bye.