

Wi$e Up Teleconference Call
July 31, 2007
Paying for Higher Education and Repaying Student Loans
Closing remarks – Sarah Miller

Jane Walstedt: And now I'm going to turn it over to Sarah Miller who's also a member of the Women's Bureau team that plans the Wi$e Up teleconference calls to give us closing remarks.

Sarah--

Sarah Miller: Thank you Jane.

On behalf of the Women's Bureau, I'd like to thank our presenters, Pam Krueger, Maureen O'Brien, and David Frisch for speaking on our teleconference call today.

You've all shared a wealth of information, and I'm sure it will help us manage the increasing cost of higher education. By taking the time to research and understand the available financing and repayment options, we can make wiser decisions that will help us reach our educational and our financial goals.

And I just hope that everyone who has listened to the call will take the opportunity to look at the online resources that all three of our speakers have mentioned because this is such a dense topic that there's a lot more information out there.

And with that, I think I'll close the call. I just want to thank our listeners and especially our Wi$e Up participants and mentors for joining. We hope that the call has been beneficial to you. And again, the transcript and audio recording will be available on the Wi$e Up Web site which is www.wiseupwomen.org, and we hope you'll join our next Wi$e Up teleconference call on September 28, 2007 from 2:00 pm to 3:00 pm Eastern Time.

Thanks again for listening.

Jane Walstedt: Thank you very much.

Coordinator: And that concludes today's conference. Please disconnect your line at this time.
